BIKANER – THE CITY OF ROYAL SPLENDOUR

Khamma Ghani sa...

Welcome to Bikaner.

Bikaner was founded by Rao Bika in 1486 and from its small origins it has developed into the fifth largest city in Rajasthan. Only those who have a penchant for peaceful life would come over to the colorful city of Bikano, also known as Bikaner. Bikaner offers a mesmerising blend of Rajasthani culture: royal medieval architecture - in a string of spectacular forts and temples, narrow lanes meandering the gently bustling markets and the ever-so-courteous people.

Bikaner is known for its rich archaeological heritage and some of the places to visit are:

Junagadh Fort

Constructed in the year 1593 by Raja Rai Singh, it is said that crocodiles were bred in the waters surrounding the formidable fort. The construction witnesses a fine blend of Mughal, Gujarati and Rajput style of architecture.

Lalgarh Palace

Built by Maharaja Ganga Singh in the year 1902, the red sandstone construction is a stunning example of the architectural brilliance. With a strategic blend of different architectural styles, the fort houses lavish lawns with peacocks. There is a library, cards room and billiards room among various other rooms.

Gajner Palace

Built by Maharaja Ganga Singh Ji, the lakeside palace was a hunting ground for the royal family. The red sandstone construction is a glowing example of beautiful architecture. Situated in the refuge of forest, witnessing migratory birds flock is a common sight during winters.

Sadul Singh Museum

Situated amidst the premises of Lalgarh palace, it possesses some of the interesting facts about the lives and the passions of the three successive kings of Bikaner in the form of rare artifacts, Georgian paintings, and the photographs.

These are just few of the jewels of Bikaner, the ancient city has much more to offer.

Nestled on the outskirts of Bikaner city in Rajasthan, RNB Global University is spread across 300 acres.

RNB Global University is where all of your Bikaner is within easy reach:
