

Blood Donation Camp

Rich or Poor, you have the most precious natural resource of all: Blood

As blood donation is the noblest service to humankind, RNBGU Events Forum, in collaboration with Rotary Club and PBM Hospital, Bikaner, organized a Blood Donation Camp in the University campus on 21st November 2016. The program witnessed the benign presence of Mr. Pradeep Lath, President, and Mr. Pradeep Gupta, Secretary of Rotary Club, Bikaner. In the supervision of Dr. Shaina and her expert team from PBM Hospital, Bikaner, large number of students and faculty members donated blood. The honorable Vice Chairman, Mr. Vikram Bajaj encouraged & appreciated the participation of students and faculty members for their contribution in this noble cause.

Nikita Soni (MBA - II Semester)

IMPORTANCE OF CONSTITUTION DAY

While everyone knows and celebrates our Republic Day, very few know of the Constitution Day. The Constitution Day, also known as Samvidhan Divas is celebrated in India on 26 November every year. The Prime Minister of India Mr. Narendra Modi declared this day as constitution day, on 11 October 2015 on the occasion of laying the foundation stone of the B. R. Ambedkar memorial in Mumbai.

The year of 2015 was the 125th birth anniversary of Ambedkar, who had chaired the drafting committee of the Constituent Assembly and played a pivotal role in the drafting of the constitution. Previously this day was celebrated as Law Day. Later 26th November was chosen to spread the importance of the constitution and to spread thoughts and ideas of Dr. B R Ambedkar.

8 Secrets for Calming Your Nerves and Acing Your Interview

Congratulations! You successfully landed an interview for your dream internship or job. Just being offered an interview means the company sees potential in you. No matter how long you spent preparing and reading about the company, pre-interview nerves are normal. Here are some tips picked up throughout the years on how to calm your nerves for the big day:

1. Preparation is key

It might feel like common sense, but the more prepared you are for your interview, the more confident you will feel going into it. Research your company and read about other candidates' experiences interviewing with them. Nail your elevator pitch. Always have answers prepared for the following three questions: (1) Why me? (2) Why this position? (3) Why this company?

2. Have a few facts about the company memorized

I can almost guarantee your interviewer will ask, "Why do you want to work for this company?" Some interviewers will even directly ask, "Tell me what you know about this company." Even if you did extensive research beforehand, it's easy to stumble on this question in the moment due to nerves. Therefore, I suggest having at least a few key facts about the company memorized that you can easily draw from just in case you panic.

3. Prepare for those hard-to-answer questions

You can't predict every possible question that could be asked, but have answers prepared for common difficult questions. Some examples are: "What is your biggest weakness?" "Tell me about a time you failed," or "tell me about a time you struggled during a team project/assignment and what you did to fix the problem?"

If there are any potential problems or holes in your resume (low GPA, limited work experience), be prepared to answer questions about those as well.

4. Research your interviewer on social media

Shh...This one is my favorite tip! While it is not always possible to know who will be conducting your interview, many times you will know beforehand. This is where your expert Internet sleuthing skills can come to play. Facebook is my favorite website to use because it reveals a more social, less polished side of a person. Social media "research" helps you learn a little bit about that person on a more personal level, which can make them seem less intimidating when you go in for the interview. You'd be surprised how quickly your nerves will vanish when you see an old college photo of your interviewer or an old profile picture with sappy quotes in the description.

Furthermore, social media can reveal things you two have in common that could potentially be brought up during your interview. Did this person grow up in the same state as you? Are they really passionate about a cause you are also passionate about? Were they in the same sorority/fraternity as you? While it's probably a bad idea to blatantly say during your interview that you stalked this person on social media beforehand ("Hey! I found you on Facebook and I see you are from Delhi. I am too!"), mentioning these areas of similarity could help you stand out. For example, if I knew beforehand that my interviewer had also been a part of my sorority, I would make sure to mention my campus involvement during the interview.

5. Talk to somebody who has experience with this company

Do you know anybody who currently works at the company or has worked there in the past? Have any of your classmates interviewed with the company before? If so, these are great people to talk to who could potentially give you helpful insider tips on what to expect or what the company is really looking for. If you don't know anyone off the top of your head who is connected, try searching on LinkedIn. And don't be nervous asking people for advice—most people are happy to help out.

6. Start off the morning right

It's the big day! Make sure to start off your morning on the right foot. Get to bed early the night before to ensure proper sleep (if you anticipate you will have trouble falling asleep, plan your schedule so that you get extra sleep two nights before—you most likely won't feel the effects of improper sleep the day of, but will definitely feel them two days later). Wake up early and workout to your favorite pump-up playlist. Make sure to eat a substantial and nutritious breakfast.

7. Meditate, breathe and visualize

It's extremely important to be in the right state before your interview. Take a few deep breaths and meditate if you need to. Try using positive affirmations. Visualize the interview going extremely well. Remember, you wouldn't have even gotten an interview if the company didn't see any potential in you. Focus on your strengths!

8. Remember, people hire people!

Last but not least, remember that people (not companies!) hire people. It doesn't matter if you are interviewing for one of the top companies in your industry. The company itself is just a name, not a person. Your interviewer is the one who is actually going to talk to you, and he or she is just a person. A human being who has hopes and fears, passions and goals, just like you. Focus on connecting with the interviewer—they are the ones who actually have the power over whether you get hired or not.

Interviews can be scary, but remember that even your interviewer was in your position at one time in their life. Keep your chin high, your voice steady and your mind positive. You'll be sure to ace it!

Contributed by: Namratta Kaushal

Quiz, Extempore and Debate Competition

On Saturday, 12th November 2016, RNB Global University organized a Quiz, Debate and Extempore competition for the students. Organized to strike a balance between academics and co-curricular activities, such competitions provide an opportunity to the students to explore new ideas, facts and knowledge.

Quiz Competition was conducted in two rounds, the General Knowledge and Current Affairs rounds. Saurabh Chopra & Gautum Chopra (BBA III Semester) secured the first position and Divyaraj Rathore & Yashpal Kumar (BA LLB I Semester) were the first runners up.

The topic for the debate competition was 'Bold Step - Indian Currency (500/1000) Rupee Note Cease to be Legal Tender at the Midnight'. Dr. Hansraj Arora (SOL) and Prof. Ajoy Kumar Mitra (SOCM) were the judges for the competition. After a heated and great interactive session Shubham Phugalia (MBA III Semester) was declared the winner of the debate competition. Kartik Rajpurohit (B. Sc. I Semester) was the first runner-up.

Judges for the extempore competition were Dr Manjoo Saraswat, Deputy Registrar and Dr. Kiran Pareek, Associate Professor (SOASS). Sonali Bhansali (MBA III Semester) was declared as the winner and Kartik Rajpurohit (B. Sc. I Semester) was the first runner up of the competition.

Shubham Pugalia (MBA - IV Semester)

Constitution Day Celebration

RNB Global University celebrated Indian Constitution Day on Saturday, 26 November 2016. Constitution Day, also known as Samvidhan Divas, is celebrated in India on 26 November every year to commemorate the adoption of the Constitution of India.

The function aimed to reflect on what it means to be a citizen of India; what are the Fundamental Rights provided to every citizen residing on this glorious land and the Fundamental Duties expected from them. The Constitution plays a meaningful role in the life of every Indian. It not only establishes the rule of law, but also ensures that every citizen lives with the same rights, privileges and responsibilities as the other.

An extensive presentation on Fundamental Duties was given by Prof. G. S. Karkare, Dean, School of Law. He emphasized on the importance of fundamental duties in the life of a common man, which makes every citizen, a true Indian. Further, Ms Khyati Jain, Assistant Professor School of Law, discussed the Fundamental Rights highlighting the privileges an individual gets being an Indian. She applauded the devotion of Baba Saheb Bhimrao Ambedkar under whose counsel the Indian Constitution was drafted which is not just a legal document but also a sacred book for every Indian. Later on the Oath of Allegiance was taken by all present there to support and defend the Constitution of the country. The Registrar, Prof. Mahendra K. Ghadoliya, Deputy Registrar Dr. Manjoo Saraswat, Deans of various Schools and all the erudite faculty members along with students of the University participated in this function.

Faculty Editor – Dr Amit Joshi, Asst Prof / Ms Shalini Joshi Asst Prof.

Designed by – Mr. Pankaj Swami, Executive-IT

RNB Global University
RNB Global City
Ganganagar Road, Bikaner
T +91-151-5156000
F +91-151-5156001
W rnbglobal.edu.in

Follow us on:

<https://www.facebook.com/RNBGlobalUniversity>
<https://twitter.com/RNBGlobalUniversityBikaner>
<https://plus.google.com/+RNBGlobalUniversityBikaner>
<https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCCo8Cp dTDA0fYMoyyhFL8kg>