MALAYSIA TRIP

KUALALUMPUR, MARCH 7, 2017 The Malaysian Government goes with the tag line, "Malaysia Truly Asia" this could not be truer. As I was to soon find out that Malaysia is a potpourri of people, food, music & architecture.

DAY ONE, 1st MARCH: On a full belly we started our Capital tour, which included architecture splendors merging the old and new seamlessly. To name a few, we saw the National Mosque, Sultan Abdul Samad's Palace, Merdeka Square, the National Monument, Tien Ho Temple, Blue Mosque and the Putrajaya Temple that had 252 step to the top. Our next stop was KL towers, which is 3000 ft. higher than the rest of the city giving a bird's eye of its urban beauty. Our cameras were working overtime.

DAY TWO had us visiting a Batik factory. The walls were lined with paintings and never could have imagined an industrial compound with such creativity. The second industry on our list was Royal Selangor followed by Yakult where we saw the making of their products. After all the technical touring it was time for fun and we landed at KLCC Aquaria where we saw exotic fishes and sea life. Finally tired we checked onto the luxurious Pearl hotel.

DAY THREE was all about speed thrill and fun. This was my favorite part of the visit. We went to Sunway lagoon, which boasts of 6 different parks. Our focus was the Water Park followed by the Amusement Park, the Scream Park and then the Wildlife Park. Tired and content we hit the bed with a happy sad feeling. Happy because we were having so much fun and sad because the next day was our last day in Malaysia.

DAY FOUR was dedicated to improving Malaysia's economy. I mean, we decided to spend the day mostly shopping. The shopping list was eclectic to say the least. It had everything from a fridge magnet to a laptop on it. Finally it was time for the "Pièces De Résistance" The Petronas Twin towers. Our cameras were working overtime and so were our shooting skills. After all the pictures had to make an impression on Facebook, Wassapp and whatever else's out there.

The airport was our last bastion to load up on Chocolates and last minute Malaysian souvenirs before we settled down to get back home

RNBIAN'S STUDY TOUR TO NRCC & NRCE, BIKANER, RAJASTHAN

BIKANER, MARCH 1 2017: National Research Centre on Camel (NRCC) and National Research Centre on Equine (NRCE) Bikaner is a premier research Centre of the Indian Council of Agricultural Research (ICAR). Students of BSc and Engineering had the wonderful opportunity to visit this facility.

Dr. Debendra Kumar, form NRCE, took the students around the institute and the museum while explaining about the various research and development work that is ongoing at the institute. Research on the genetic improvement of camel is of top most priority of the institute. While the scientific research work was brilliant what was even more brilliant was the Camel milk Kulfi's and milkshakes that we all enjoyed before we wrapped up this exciting trip.

VISIT TO THE HONORABLE HIGH COURT OF JODHPUR

JODHPUR, MARCH 6 2017 Very rarely do students have this golden opportunity to visit the Highcourt courtrooms. We extend a big thank you to the Registrar of the High Court Bench, who made this possible for us. The students were given a brief note about the court and courtrooms by Advocate Kaushal Gautam, who is a practicing lawyer at High Court of Rajasthan. He guided all the students and dictated the Jurisdiction of the High Court Bench. Before leaving the Courts the students thanked Mr Gautam whole-heartedly. The journey back was packed with discussions on what students saw, learnt and experienced.

MUMBAI EDUCATIONAL VISIT 2017

MUMBAI, February 27 2017: Four days full of excitement, fun learning and exploring this describes our Mumbai trip. Mumbai the financial, commercial and entertainment capital of India did not disappoint us, first on our list were the celebrated landmarks like Gateway of India, Juhu Chowpaty.

Day 2 was for educational visits; we visit Adlabs & Imagica, Mumbai's famous 300-acre theme park. What was real interesting was the engineering and technology behind the rides that make Imagica such a favorite among theme parks. We challenged ourselves on dare devil rides and experienced the winter wonderland at the snow world.

Day 3 we visited the Jawaharlal Lal Nehru Ports Ltd. A port operation center, we were in awe of the computerized operation of the vessels through the Radar system. The engineering behind the loading and unloading of containers was unbelievable.

Later we also visited the automated plant of Amul to understand how the country's largest dairy optimizes operations to achieve high efficiency.

Day 4 was when we were to depart and it was only befitting that we paid our obeisance at the ever so powerful Siddhivinayak, Temple of Lord Ganesha. We offered our prayers and made our wishes for a blessed future. Before we realized it, it was time to board our train for Bikaner, but the memories that we made and the things that we learned will always be cherished by us.

ARBEIT MACHT FREI - WORK SET'S YOU FREE

AUSCHWITZ, POLAND, July 23, 2013: The 2nd world war has always been of utmost interest and importance to me. The 2nd World war is that one pre 9/11 event that changed the world, as people knew it then. It was an event of extremities- loyalties, inhumanity, courage, love, sadness, poverty every human aspect was at its peak. Also to me it was the last Man's Man and Woman's Woman War..... Before drones (technology) if not completely then almost completely replaced a soldiers war cry. A soldier very rarely now fights a known enemy it's the non-uniform clad enemy of terrorism, insurgency and civil war that they deal with.

A soldier's uniform brings words like honor, dignity, service and protection to the forefront and yet here was an army largely devoid of all these sentiments and attributes. A self-proclaimed superior race/superior army ... so insecure and so inhuman???? There is hardly a documentary on Auschwitz that I haven't watched and I was always uncomfortable about how badly I wanted to come here. Why do I want to go to a place with such sadness and cruelty? I never did have that answer until I stood right outside the camp after completing my visit to Auschwitz.

I am not going to go into how many barracks etc. etc. you will find in Auschwitz but instead I'll share what went through my mind while in the camp. To begin with Auschwitz has to be visited with a camp guide, so at the very beginning we all were given a set of earphones a radio thingies to hear our guide and a visitors tag. We were instructed to remain close with the group, not to wander off and that bathroom breaks were to be taken only before or after the tour and that nothing was to be eaten during the tour. These instructions at any other place would be normal tour instructions and not effect me the way they did now. I had a very small (and in no way comparable) glimpse of what it feels to be instructed on your every move, to lose your identity and be known only with a badge/id - no name just a statistic. I conclude Conformity is key in Auschwitz - then and now. I understand that all this is to make the tour logistically smooth for us and I in no way had a issue with that.... but still it just makes you think that with the cruelty inflicted on the inmates here and with no sign of humanity what was it like? For example a prisoner could use the restroom only twice a day once in the morning and then the night, no bodily functions could be performed in between and were punishable, this was not one of the harshest but most basic rules of the camp.

I look around to see a lot of Jewish people and wonder if they lost any loved ones here? Many groups are signing Jewish songs.... I don't know what they mean but they sound inspiring and uplifting maybe it's the attitude of their song or the expression on their faces... I see some older Jews crying and kneeling down to pray in front of the gallows and prison cells. I find myself saying a quick prayer as well- god please give them peace and let this never ever happen again to a people. After my prayer I feel trivial because my prayer seems very un-profound and even simplistic for what I'm asking. Three hours pass between holding back tears, looking away, cringing and deep breaths and I finally walk across the barbed wire opening that once was the electrified fence - on purpose I walk away from the group, sit in the shade take off my ear phones and sing a couple of lines out loud.... just because I AM FREE AND I CAN.

Finally under the shade of a tree right next to where the Nazi Camp Commandant was hanged for war crimes I have my answer to why I always wanted to come to Auschwitz.... it is to understand the gravest inhumanity of man towards mankind and to witness the best example of human spirit to overcome and survive.
