Course name: Art of Writing Judgement
Course Code: BBLE35122

Course Objective

The Process of reaching a conclusion by a judge on a question of law or facts calls for the knowledge of human behaviour, the attitude of the parties in the background of social norms to which they belong, awareness of the principles of interpretation and the changing laws. All this equipment is of little effect unless the judge is equally skilled in presenting his thought process by medium of words in a coherent, clear and concise manner.

Judgments delivered by the courts are on a regular basis uploaded on a legal research database for quick search and retrieval. Judgment is a speaking document discussing facts, issues, evidence and passing remarks. The study of the art of writing judgments shall provide the points the judge should keep in mind during all this exercise.

Course: International Commercial Law

Course Code: BBLE35129

Course Objectives:

This course introduces students to the dynamic field of International Economic Law. More specifically, the course enables students to gain insight into the international monetary system as well as trade and investment law. The unit focuses particularly on the highly relevant field of international trade law. In today's globalised society, international trade transactions take place daily, and the rules which govern those transactions have become even more important in light of the broader move towards protectionism by many states, and in light of current world events e.g. Brexit.

The following are the aims of this course;

1. To provide an understanding of the field of international economic law;
2. To foster an understanding of the role played by international economic law in development of international law in a globalised world, and in light of current world events e.g. move towards protectionist policies and Brexit;
3. To foster a basic understanding of international monetary law;
4. To examine the role of the WTO in international trade regulation;
5. To consider how international trade disputes may be settled;
6. To examine the role of free trade and regional trade agreements and how they fit with the multilateral trading system;
7. To very briefly introduce students to basic concepts within the law of foreign investment;
8. To develop students' capacity for critical analysis and independent thinking;
9. To develop a general range of transferable and generic skills in problem-solving a reasoning, computer literacy, time management and written and oral communication
